

The High Profits Quick Guide to Link Directories

Using Directories for Link Building

Basically Link Directories are sites which list links to lots of other sites. They are like the yellow pages of the internet. People search the directories much like they would a search engine.

You can submit to many of them for free, just use the Google search engine to find them. Before you start your directory submission campaign you should prepare the following information.

Site Name:

This will be a short name for your site that usually includes the keyword, for example 123 Cash Surveys might choose "Paid Online Surveys" or "Get Paid to take Surveys". I recommend you pick 2 or 3 different titles and rotate between them.

Description/Summary:

A short (150-250 character) description of your site that makes good use of your keywords, prepare a few examples of this if you plan on doing a large amount of submissions. Staying with our example you may write something like;

"Did you know that large market research companies and businesses are willing to pay you money for your opinions. 123 Cash Surveys allows you to make money from home filling out paid surveys online."

Email Address:

You will need an email address to receive all the confirmations of your listing. I recommend you set up a free email with either Google or MSN and use this to submit your links with.

Below is a list of directories to get you started! Remember to look for the free sites to submit to. There are 100's of them! And each of your entries counts as a back link to you site, so get posting!
